REPUBLIC BANK (GHANA) PLC INAUGURATES NEW HEAD OFFICE AT FLAGSHIP REPUBLIC COURT BUILDING, MARKING A BOLD STEP IN FIVE-YEAR STRATEGIC VISION

Accra, 14th November 2025 – Republic Bank (Ghana) PLC, Ghana’s pioneer in mortgage banking and a leading universal financial institution, has officially inaugurated its new head office - Republic Court - a striking architectural landmark strategically located at the Ridge Roundabout on Independence Avenue.

The inauguration marks a bold new chapter for the Bank, symbolizing its renewed commitment to world-class banking, financial inclusion, and national development.

The high-profile ceremony brought together senior government officials, industry leaders, business executives, long-standing customers, and strategic partners - a strong testament to Republic Bank’s enduring influence and relevance within Ghana’s financial landscape.

Delivering the welcome address, Dr. Benjamin Dzoboku, Managing Director of Republic Bank (Ghana) PLC, recounted the Bank’s transformative journey from its beginnings as Home Finance Company at Pension House, to Ebankese, and now to Republic Court. “From our first head office at Ebankese to this magnificent Republic Court, this building is not merely a change of address; it represents a renewal of our mandate to lead in an era of technology, innovation, and elevated customer experience. We stand ready, under the banner of ‘Reimagined Possibilities,’ to deliver more impact, more empowerment, and more opportunities for every Ghanaian,” he stated.

Dr. Dzoboku further noted that Republic Court will serve as the Bank’s new “command centre of progress and transformation,” fully aligned with its five-year strategic plan, The Republic Verse, and powered by cutting-edge digital platforms.

In his remarks, Mr. Jonathan Prince Cann, Board Chairman of Republic Bank (Ghana) PLC, described the inauguration as a milestone of national significance. “The transition from Ebankese to Republic Court is a testament to resilience, innovation, and strategic leadership. As Ghana’s most diversified financial institution, we remain committed to supporting key sectors, driving job creation, and fostering a more inclusive and prosperous national economy,” he affirmed.

Representing the President of the Republic, Hon. Julius Debrah, Chief of Staff, delivered a compelling keynote address that celebrated Republic Bank’s pivotal role in Ghana’s economic architecture. He highlighted the alignment between the Bank’s operations and national priorities, including the Ghana Transformation Agenda, the 24-Hour Economy Initiative, agricultural modernization and import substitution, the digitalization and financial inclusion agenda, and SME empowerment.

He commended the Bank’s leadership in sustainability and praised its adoption and maintenance of the African Union (AU) Square - a demonstration of exemplary corporate citizenship. “The government celebrates Republic Bank’s consistent contribution to GDP growth, export diversification, and poverty reduction through inclusive financing. As we pursue industrialization and digital transformation, Republic Bank remains a trusted partner, helping translate government policy into tangible progress for every Ghanaian,” Hon Debrah added.

Long-standing customer Mr. Augustine Kwame Addo, reflecting on the Bank’s evolution, acknowledged the enduring legacy of past leaders. “I have known the beginnings of this Bank from its mortgage financing days, through HFC Bank and now Republic Bank. I have banked with Republic since the Ebankese days and have witnessed how the Bank has transformed lives and businesses. This new head office is a promise of even greater things - more opportunities, stronger partnerships, and a brighter future for all Ghanaians,” he stated.

The ceremony was attended by past and present Board members, Management, Staff, Customers, Shareholders, and members of the media.

The inauguration of Republic Court reaffirms Republic Bank’s mission to empower individuals, businesses, and communities through innovative, customer-centric financial solutions anchored on its five-year strategic vision.
